Safety Management System

Section 5 – Anchorages

Anchorage

There are no routine anchorages within the limits of the North Sunderland Harbour or its approaches.

Ships waiting orders or seeking shelter will occasionally lie off the port.

NSH will normally exercise no control over vessel anchoring off the port and any anchorages are used entirely at the Masters discretion.

Emergency Anchorages

In the event of any emergency during entry or exit from the port it is possible for vessels using the port to drop anchor/s anywhere within the port limits but only as much or as long to stabilise the emergency.

Moorings

Moorings and alongside berths in NSH are addressed in the Commissioners Mooring Policy.
